{Half-time}

Em D A x4

Em D A Early one morning we fled.

Em D A Bodies like sardines but not dead.

Em D A Sailing away, we know not where.

Em D A Silent, ahead we just stare.

D E A Crossing the ocean of blue.

D E F#m Not on a pleasure cruise.

E A E D Leaving my home and family behind.

F#m E A Memories of them fill my mind.

{Double-time}

Em D A x2

Em D A Birds circle above on the prow.

Em D A A school of fish feed off our bow.

Em D A Birds dive in to catch their prey.

Em D A For the fish, it's their doomsday.

D E A Crossing the ocean of blue.

D E F#m Pure survival deja vu.

E A E D Missing my family and friends who died.

F#m E A Wondering how I got out alive.

A E Maybe I'd be better all a-

F#m C#m lone, on my own.

A E Now we are a big target for a

F#m D missile from a drone.

D E A A Oh, oh, oh, oh, no!

Em D A x2

Em D A The flock flies away after their feast.

Em D A Floating past are bits of the deceased.

Em D A A lone shape follows up high.

Em D A We don't even get the chance to cry.

D E A Crossing the ocean of blue.

D E F#m The quarry below comes into view.

E A E D Artificial intellect at the command,

F#m E A leaves bloody debris in sea and sand.
